Introduction

We provide statutory audit services to various companies operating in diverse sectors. The audit report issued under the Companies Act, 2013 is a statutory requirement for any company registered under the said Act.

We also provide audit services to investment trusts and not-for-profit organisations like charitable organisations, provident funds, gratuity funds, and superannuation funds.

Our philosophy

We provide statutory audit services at the highest standard to our clients. In doing so, we ensure that we adhere to the ethics of our profession both in letter and spirit, and also ensure that we preserve our independence.

Independence:

We value our independence above all and this is the foundation for adhering to all ethical principles followed by the Firm. By being independent, we can be confident and apply due professional scepticism to meet the expectations of the regulators in letter and spirit.

Our audit approach

Our audit approach is aligned Standards of Auditing issued by ICAI for carrying out audits.

This involves understanding the business and operations of the client. The planning, risk assessment and determination of materiality is followed by audit execution. Finally, the audit opinion is arrived at and along with other observations communicated to those charged with governance.

Quality control

Quality control is imperative for consistency and standardisation of audit procedures across the Firm. Our quality control policies give the principles for maintaining our audit quality consistently across all clients irrespective of their size. We also keep a close watch on regulatory developments applicable to audit service. Our quality reviewers are experienced and technically seasoned practitioners who have the capability and authority to carry out an independent check on the audit assignments to prevent both conscious and unconscious bias.

Audit tools

In the current age of data deluge and increased expectations from regulators and stakeholders, it is difficult to apply traditional audit methods and sampling to achieve the level of coverage and audit risk mitigation needed to form an opinion. Therefore, data analytics (DA) and Robotic Process Automation (RPA) tools are essentials in the execution of audit.

We use our in-house DA team to assist the assurance practice, wherever suitable to increase the coverage of audit samples and reduce the time involved in identifying outliers.

The audit team constantly leverages automation tools like analytics and robotic processing automation (RPA) to audit large data populations.
